THE PEER BEATEN AT 1 TO 12 BY ERRATIC
CHOIRMASTER OF CHESTERBROOK.

Jockey Glass' Poorly Judged Ride a Contributing Factor—Little King Wins the Holly—Jockey
Butwell Victim of Excessive Reducing.

New York, September 23.—Captain E. B. Cassatt's bizarre combination—Choirmaster of Chesterbrook and the midget jockey, Mulligan—for the second time in their respective careers triumphed at the races at Gravesend today in sensational fashion. The inconsistent son of The Bard decisively defeated The Peer, a 1 to 12 chance in a three-horse race, with King Sol, the other starter, a beaten-off third. The odds on the favorite being prohibitive, speculation had no alternative but to back a forlorn hope in the Chesterbrook representative at 10 to 1 or leave the race alone, King Sol being absolutely out of the question. The result was that the multitude cheered Captain Cassatt's horse to victory. A layer named Ryan laid one wager of $1,000 against $8,000. The Peer might not have been able to win under the most skillful and vigorous ride that could have been given him, but the fact remains that jockey Glass' tactics invited defeat. Instead of keeping his rating and staying mount up with the leader he deliberately took him back into leisurely distant pursuit of the flying pacemaker for half of the journey, and even went to the extent of courting interference from King Sol. Glass' awakening came after Mulligan had stolen a long and winning lead on the backstretch. He then began to ride with all the vigor of which he is capable, but was too late. It seemed as if almost every person in the enclosure had a bet on the winner. Fully a thousand jubilant and almost hysterical men and women crowded around the stewards' stand to receive the victorious pair on the return to the scales. Mulligan's face was wreathed in smiles and was flushed with success.

A return to favorable racing weather brought out the usual army of racegoers this afternoon, although the card was little more than mediocre. The track had dried out thoroughly after the rain of yesterday and was fast. The Holly Selling Stakes of $1,500, for two-year-olds, was the outstanding feature. The pair of contenders, Little King and Ben Loyal, were the dominant factors in the race and the issue from first to last was practically confined to them, both displaying amazing improvement over their preceding efforts. None of the four other contenders—Pretend, Huda's Sister, Starport and Intrinsic—came on the scene at the end of the struggle and saved third place. A majority of the spectators differed with the official placing and thought that Ben Loyal was first. The diminutive novice rider, Hyland, had the race won a furlong out, but finally tossed off a certain victory. The backward position throughout the running of the promising and well-played Starport was explained when jockey Butwell fainted from weakness while dismounting. In the process of reducing to 105 pounds, the weight carried by the Ireland filly, Butwell had seriously impaired his strength and he was unable to do his mount justice in the race. His remaining jockey engagements were canceled. The included mounts on Ethereal and Boda Boda. Crewey was substituted on the latter and was beaten a nose in the last race.

King's Daughter confirmed her present formidable form by leading Astrakhan and Elmer to start to finish in the handicap at a mile and three-sixteenths. The last-named horse ran a bad race under jockey Grand's handling. This jockey had been substituted for Butwell without trainer Hyland's knowledge and he was much brought up over the matter. He slowly early race helped to beat the Starport gelding.

Jeanne d'Arc easily vanquished seven opponents in the introductory dash. J. I. Smith, trainer for J. L. McGinnis, bid the filly up from $500 to $1,200, but the stable bought her in at $1,205. Emperor William was the next odds-on favorite to score. The big Sain colt got the best of a bad start and barely lasted to beat Practical by a narrow margin. The winner is a grand-looking colt and is likely to improve in stamina with age.

Edith Dugan's horsemanship was conspicuously displayed on Spindle in the closing race. The green-running youngster got away with a commanding lead and was never headed, but was so tired in the last quarter that she ran all over the course under her jockey's incessant whipping.

Blackford, recently claimed by E. Hughes for the Quincey Stable, has been ordered returned to his former owner, C. J. Quinn. It was found that Hughes was not authorized to act for the Quincey Stable.

Ward for $1,075. As high as $2,500 was bid for Angerona, but J. L. McGinnis would not let her go at that figure. SALES OF THOROUGHBREDS IN ENGLAND.

Big Prices Obtained for Fashionably-Bred Yearlings at the Noted Doncaster Auction.

Important as is the annual racing at Doncaster, with such great features as the St. Leger, Champagne Stakes and Doncaster Cup among the features of prime attraction, it is rivaled in interest by the sales of yearlings at auction, which continue through the four days of racing. The leading breeders of England send their choicest youngsters to the Doncaster sales and the fact that 213 were sold this year for an average of $2,152.50, is something for American breeders to view with an air of envy. It was the best sale at Doncaster for several years, comparative results of the last three years being as follows:

Results in 1909.
First day	Lots Sold	Aggregate	Average
26	26	$ 25,675	$ 987.50

50	47	85,000	1,808.50
Total	240	$460,875	$1,920.31

As is customary, the first day's selling was unimportant, but the second and third days were of great importance. The top price of the day, but on the succeeding days bidding waxed fast and furious until on the third day the climax price of $20,000 was given for the fashionably-bred St. Frusquin—Game Chick filly. Many other big sums were given in the course of the four days. Those that sold for $3,000 or more, together with their breeding and purchasers, were the following:

MORE ARRIVALS AT CHURCHILL DOWNS.

Louisville, Ky., September 23.—The horses of W. F. Schulte and Henderson & Hogan are the latest additions to the racers assembled at Churchill Downs in preparation for the opening of the fall meeting here next Saturday. Zenap and Gliding Belle are the principal campaigners in the Schulte string. In Miller Henderson's string are J. H. Reed, Captain Morris, Frank G. Hogan, Henderson and other two-year-olds. The Henderson & Hogan string will be campaigned in the east again next year. It will then be strong in two-year-olds. Frank Hogan went east for the sales last spring and bought fifteen or sixteen yearlings, and Mr. Henderson picked up four or five this fall. These youngsters will be broken at Louisville in the course of the next two or three weeks and they will learn the rudiments of racing next spring at Churchill Downs. Miller Henderson thinks well of Captain Morris, a two-year-old son of Ben Strone—Loot. Already more than sixteen hands high, he will be a remarkably large horse when he fills out. He worked three-quarters in 1:13 for the Futurity, but fell lame shortly afterward and was unable to start. The colt is named for a Louisville lawyer, who was a comrade of Mr. Henderson in the volunteer service during the Spanish-American war. Churchill Downs presents a busy scene these days. Racers are arriving from the east and the Canadian circuit daily, and Secretary Davis is kept busy from morning until night locating them. There will be a greater number of good-class performers at the Downs by next Sunday than has ever before been housed at the historic old course in the fall. The program for the first seven days of the meeting has been issued by Secretary Davis. It provides for six races daily for purses ranging from $500 to $600.

FALL AND WINTER RACING PROSPECTS.

Horsemen to Have Continuous Opportunities for Activity Except During Part of November.

Scrutiny of the racing schedules arranged for this fall and winter discloses a condition of affairs that will provide abundant opportunity for votaries of the sport to indulge in their favorite pastime during the ensuing half year, with the exception of an interregnum of a week or two following the close of the metropolitan racing on the eastern tracks and the opening of the winter meetings in the south. The schedule of dates under which the tracks in the vicinity of New York are operating provides for continuous racing successively at Gravesend, Belmont Park, Jamaica, Aqueduct and Empire City up to November 15, the date which marks the legal closing of racing in the state of New York. Pimlico, the Maryland Jockey Club's track at Baltimore, will be the scene of racing for fourteen days in October and November, but this meeting will close a week before the New York season comes to an end. Following the close of the Toronto meeting tomorrow, there will be racing on the Canadian circuit at Hamilton and Windsor until following the close of the Canadian season will end. The schedule for fall racing in Kentucky provides for thirteen days at Churchill Downs, Louisville, beginning tomorrow and continuing until October 9, and twenty-four days at Lexington, beginning on October 14 and ending on November 6. If this arrangement should be followed out, the western season will end before the sport ceases in the east and western horsemen will remain in enforced idleness for several weeks until the opening of the winter track season at Jacksonville, Fla., is scheduled to open on Thanksgiving Day, which comes this year on November 25, and the Tampa and Juarez meetings will begin about a week later, on December 1. In previous seasons, it has been customary for the New York Jockey Club to usher in winter racing at Oakland early in November, but on account of the passage of anti-racing legislation in California last winter, no authoritative announcement has as yet been made concerning winter racing on the coast and there is considerable uncertainty as to what may be forthcoming in that far western section. Should Thomas H. Williams decide it to be advisable, racing may begin in California at the accustomed time and this would bridge the gap in dates at present existing. The minor meetings now going on at Salt Lake City, Vancouver and Montreal will have come to a close long before the ending of the season of 1909 on eastern tracks.

CHAMPION OF PERSONAL LIBERTY.

Mayor McClellan of New York Takes View that Paternal Legislation Is Not "Cure-All."

Mayor George B. McClellan of Greater New York, who is looked upon as the likely nominee of the Democratic party for governor of the Empire State at next year's election, has recently concluded a tour of the county fairs throughout the state, during which he addressed great gatherings of the populace. Mayor McClellan's addresses were pitched on a high plane, worthy of a direct descendant of the great Marcy, whose service in the United States Senate and later as secretary of state in the cabinet of President Pierce, are familiar to students of political history.

During the course of his speech at the Franklin County fair at Malone, Mayor McClellan spoke as follows: "We have during the last few years seen some very extraordinary examples of paternal, or rather, grandmotherly legislation. With the best will in the world, those in charge of government have tried to cover every field of human endeavor by legislative enactment intended to carry us by the shortest possible route to the millennium. This belief in the power of legislation, through governmental interference, to cure all ills and right all wrongs, would be almost pathetic in its futility were it not that it often results in oppression and misery. The enactment of the decalogue will not make us perfect, any more that a declaration that sin shall cease will banish it from the earth. Moral sentiment must first be awakened before moral standards can be raised. The only way to do this is to surround men with conditions which will make them better, and can only be bettered by appealing through argument to the individual, and not by arbitrary and sometimes offensive legislation. The prohibition of gambling has been sweeping the country has not been due to restrictive legislation, but to the phenomenal growth of temperance sentiment, which has expressed itself in legislative form. The statutes have not been the cause of the sentiment, but the sentiment has been the cause of the statutes. Men to drink will not of itself keep them sober, any more than making gambling in any form a crime will of itself stop betting or tinkering with the primary and election laws will of itself give us honest primaries or pure elections. No law can be effective that is not supported by public opinion, for after all law is nothing but the recognition of a public opinion that already exists. The very men who in private life insist that reform must begin in the individual are only too ready to place the blame for their own sins on themselves occupying high office, to utterly forget their former teachings. Carried away by their enthusiasm, they imagine that by a stroke of the pen they can change public opinion, and that the law which they place upon the statute books in some mysterious way enforce themselves. When by the exercise of the entire police power of the state an unpopular law is enforced, they deceive themselves into the belief that the vigor of its enforcement is the triumph of the law, although it may be nothing more than the evidence of a petty tyranny. Moral progress is only possible through the force of public opinion. The prophet who, ignoring it, tramples custom under foot, and invading what have always been held to be the rights of personal liberty, forces down the throats of the people his own peculiar brand of perfection, is apt to find himself unpopular and, like other prophets, far more honored abroad than at home. As long as we remember the great truth that this nation is composed of the people of the states and that the states are composed of individuals, of men, each with a life to live by himself, each with his own salvation to work out, but all united in a common cause; that the state does not exist for the purpose of caring for its children, but that the children live for the purpose of caring for the state, just so long will our country remain great."

VANCOUVER MEETING EXTENDED.

Vancouver, B. C., September 23.—The meeting of the British Columbia Thoroughbred Association, which began at Minoru Park in this city August 21, will be extended three weeks beyond its original schedule and will come to a close Saturday, October 9. An entirely new set of officials will act. Starter Dwyer and Judge Skinner have gone to Salt Lake. R. S. Leighton goes to Spokane and Sam McGibbon to Victoria. Joe Webber will start at Victoria. J. L. Dime remains in his usual capacity of entry clerk, padlock judge and timer. Tom Wellman and Dr. Bowhill are acting as judges. Charles Webber as starter, and the other positions are being filled by local officials.

ROCKY O'BRIEN TO GO IN MATRON.

New York, September 23.—His successful effort of yesterday was Rocky O'Brien's public trial for the colt end of the Matron six furlongs straight course, which will be run at Belmont Park next Tuesday as the feature of the Westchester Racing Association's card for the opening day of the autumn meeting at Queens. It is figured that the colt end of the Matron will be worth nearly $9,000 to the winner. Because of his victory in the Hopewell, Rocky O'Brien will have to take up 129 pounds.

LAYERS HAD NO SHELTER

FORCED TO KEEP ON THE MOVE IN THE RAIN AT WOODBINE.

Ontario Jockey Club Strictly Enforces Canadian Law in Respect to Bookmaking in Pursuance of Its Policy.

Toronto, Ont., September 23.—Twenty-two sturdy layers braved the elements at Woodbine this afternoon and did what they could to accommodate the public despite the discomfort attendant upon a steady downpour of rain featuring the equinoctial storm which set in last night and which resulted in a sloppy track for today's racing. It was the first real opportunity that the Ontario Jockey Club had of strictly enforcing the law in regard to bookmaking and when the test came they were not found wanting. Instruction was given to keep the covered enclosure free of anyone who had the slightest appearance of being a layer and these instructions were rigidly followed. Since the formation of the Ontario Jockey Club, its main object has been to provide entertainment for the people of Ontario in the way of high-class sport and every effort has been made by the management to induce the owners of famous thoroughbreds to come to Woodbine and race them. Last spring King James, one of the greatest horses in training, was sent here to participate in one of the rich stakes. Unlike the smaller tracks, it has not catered to the layers, but has carried on its operations in a praiseworthy manner. There was a lot of complaint in certain quarters this afternoon in regard to the enforcement of the law, but the management never wavered and stood to its principles in a manner which won general commendation.

Under more favorable conditions the sport this afternoon would have been excellent. The program offered was the best of the meeting up to date. It included three stakes, the Minoru Plate, for all ages, at one mile; the Epsom Handicap, for all ages, at three-quarters, and the Brockhurst Steeplechase, over the two-mile course. The condition of the track naturally brought about numerous scratches, and the withdrawals in a measure ruined the card. Amos Turney furnished the winner in the Epsom Handicap in his sturdy three-year-old, The Cook, which beat the California sprinter, Booger Red, by a length and a half after a hard stretch drive. Sunley Corbett set a terrific early pace in this race, going the first half mile in 48 1/2, which was exceedingly fast, considering the going.

The tabular history of the Epsom Handicap, first run in 1907, is as follows:

Year.	Winner.	A. Wt.	Jockey.	Val.	Time.
1907	Char. Eastman	115	V. Powers	$1,030	1:13 1/4
1908	Pleasant	104	Deverich	1,250	1:12 1/2
1909	Theo Cook	109	Davenport	1,320	1:14 1/4

Only three starters went to the post in the Brockhurst Steeplechase. The winner, a winner met with a mishap at the second jump that put him out of the running. The other two starters furnished a stirring contest and, after a hard stretch drive, Bergego managed to beat Pretty Michal a neck. The erratic Prince Ahmed proved a winner in the Minoru Plate, much to the surprise of horsemen and public alike. Prince Ahmed was supposed to be a non-mud runner. The horse showed a wretched performance at Blue Bonnets when the track was sloppy and the excuse was given that he was unable to untrack himself in the going. In today's race he showed keen speed at all stages and despite the fact that he went wide entering the homestretch and kept bearing out throughout the last quarter, he beat Nasturtia by a length and a half. The public had a good line on the mud runners this afternoon, as four favorites and a well-backed second choice were among the winners. It was a day of mishaps, so far as the racing itself was concerned. In the third race, just as assistant sweepstake the clubhouse stand, there was a jam in which Nasturtia fell. The filly landed on her shoulder, broke one of her forelegs and had to be destroyed. In the Brockhurst Steeplechase, Canvas struck the second jump with one of his forelegs and broke it, and he too had to be destroyed. The accident occurred within a few feet of where Nasturtia fell. In the morning jockey McNeice, while exercising a two-year-old, fell off and was bruised so badly that he was taken to the hospital.

Secretary A. R. Loden, a member of the Hamilton Jockey Club were visitors at Woodbine this afternoon. All of the best stables participating in the Woodbine meeting will ship from here to Hamilton and the meeting there this fall promises to be the best ever given by that club. Assistant secretary Fred Gerhardt of the Windsor Racing Association distributed the books of the Windsor meeting this afternoon and the conditions pleased the horsemen. The club has been more liberal than ever in the amount of added money that will be hung up at Windsor this fall. Besides the usual $400 and $500 purses there will be a $600 handicap every day. With the conclusion of the Windsor meeting, the Canadian racing season for 1909 will come to a close. A majority of the horsemen here will ship from Hamilton to Detroit and from there to Baltimore.

George Ham will leave for Louisville tomorrow night with the horses he is training for George H. Holle and William Gerst. A meeting of the Canadian Racing Associations was held this morning but nothing of importance transpired. Routine business only was transacted and the meeting adjourned in time for the members to go to Woodbine to witness the sport.

ARGUMENTS IN KENTUCKY CASE.

Frankfort, Ky., September 23.—The case of the Kentucky State Racing Commission against the Latonia Jockey Club, which was scheduled for oral argument before the Court of Appeals yesterday, was postponed until today, when the opposing attorneys were allowed one hour each in which to present the case to the court. Harvey Myers presented the Jockey Club's side of the controversy. No decision is expected immediately and the outcome of the case will not affect the proposed race meeting of twenty-four days at the Latonia track this fall, as the decision will not become effective until thirty days after its filing, by which time the proposed meeting would be over with.

APACHE AND FOOTPAD RETIRED.

New York, September 23.—Charles R. Fleischmann has retired Apache and Footpad for the season. Apache got some gravel in his foot the last time he started at Saratoga, and the walls of the hoof spread. Footpad has been a trifle lame and Mr. Fleischmann decided after the Saratoga meeting to give him a long rest. Tony Bonero is the only horse that will bear Mr. Fleischmann's colors this fall.

WARNING AGAINST RECORDING OF BETS.

New York, September 23.—The Brooklyn Jockey Club has issued notice that, in view of the district attorney's claim that he has evidence to prove that bets have been recorded, any person detected in the act of making written records of betting transactions will be ejected from the Gravesend track and will be barred from all other Jockey Club race courses.

AMERICAN WINS RACE IN FRANCE.

Paris, September 23.—The Prix Camargue at St. Ouen today was won by Mr. Fischhoff's Rebe, T. P. Thorne had two horses, Boni and Paul Thomas, in the Prix Durance, but neither got a place. H. B. Duryea's Ben Han ran second in the Prix Dauphine.

MASKETTE MAY START TOMORROW.

New York, September 23.—James R. Keene's great filly, Maskette, worked five-eighths in 1:01 1/2 at Sheepshead Bay Tuesday and she will be ready to start Saturday in the Oriental Handicap at one mile and three-sixteenths if the weights suit. Marshall rode the big daughter of Disguise and Biturica and with his tack he must have weighed all of 126 pounds. Maskette did not seem to mind this burden a bit. She stepped the first furlong of her brother in 22 1/2, three-eighths in 34 1/2 and the half in 47. She was eased up the last furlong. Affliction, the Saratoga Handicap winner, passed and went with Maskette, but could not. She quit under the heart-breaking pace cut out by the big brown filly before half a mile had been traversed. The Oriental is a $2,000 race for horses of all ages in which handicapper Vosburgh has been called upon to bring Maskette, Field Mouse, Ethereal, Mary Davis, Dorante, King James, Fliz Herbert, Affliction, King's Daughter, Arondack, Olambala, Wise Mason, Far West, Beaumont and Monette together. Any of these horses save Olambala may start. The winner of the Twin City Handicap is galloping satisfactorily for Thomas Healey, but Richard T. Wilson, Jr., does not expect to get him to the post before the Belmont Park meeting.

The weights for the Oriental Handicap, announced this afternoon, give Maskette a ten-pound allowance from Fitz Herbert, the filly being asked to carry 128 pounds to the filly's 118. Olambala is asked to carry the same impost as that allotted to Maskette.

RACING AT POUGHKEEPSIE FAIR.

New York, September 23.—The Dutchess County Agricultural Society has arranged an attractive program of steeplechase and flat races for the fair at Poughkeepsie September 30 and October 1. There will be seven races altogether. Frank J. Bryan will be clerk of the course of the Poughkeepsie meeting, and H. N. Bain, R. M. Smith and George Coleman will be judges. The stewards and patrons of the meeting are H. Nelson, George Collingwood, G. Howard-Davison, John R. Townsend, Fletcher Harper, R. W. Rives, Guy Ward, D. B. Burnham, C. L. A. Whitney and Tracy Davis. These gentlemen are all members of the hunting and coaching set and they are one and all keenly interested in flat racing and steeplechasing. Mr. Harper, who is a skillful and courageous gentleman rider, is an active and useful member of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association.

SOMETHING OF PLAUDIT AND HIS HISTORY.

After Almost Selling Horse Once John Madden Determined Never to Part with Him.

Plaudit, the only horse that ever won a Kentucky Derby for John E. Madden, is once more back in his old Kentucky home. Madden, who had a mistaken idea in connection with the shipment of the son of Hymyar to France early last spring has all along existed in some quarters and been given wide publicity by the press ever since the great horse landed on a foreign shore, but never until now have the true facts been made public. Says a writer in the Louisville Courier-Journal:

"Madden never even harbored a thought of selling Plaudit, either before his shipment to France or after his safe arrival there. He sent the sire of King James over the sea because he then had a band of twenty-two mares in that part of the world, and while sooner or later he purposed to offer them for sale, he was not wise to the French market and he had no intention of giving his stud mares away. If he had to keep the mares he wanted them, he had to keep the sire of them. Plaudit, the son of Hymyar to France, as he is a robust horse, just the sort to fatten on a sea voyage and come out of an accidental privation still strong and vigorous. That he knew the horse is proven by the excellent condition in which Plaudit landed home once more, his appearance suggesting more a trip of only 100 miles or less than a voyage embracing many thousands of miles."

"The closest Madden ever came to selling Plaudit was in the November of his two-year-old form back in 1897. He also then owned the mighty Hamburg, and W. L. Powers, acting as agent for the late Marcus Daly, was keen to buy one or both great colts. Powers rather fancied Plaudit, being of the opinion that he would make a good writer of the colt, and in this estimation of the crack youngsters Madden also had a decided leaning. While he asked more for Hamburg, he was not anxious to name a price for Plaudit at all, as he was in all the western Derbys and his two-year-old form made it appear as though he was a maverick. There, while Hamburg's races then to come were all in the east, his engagements being such events as the Lawrence Realization, stakes that are keenly contested for and difficult for a colt to win. Finally Powers, who had been in the habit of writing to Madden to use his own judgment and buy either colt he wished to. While sitting in the dining room of the Phoenix Hotel with Madden as company, Lakeland was handed a telegram by a messenger boy, and on opening it he read aloud: Buy Hamburg; and the sender signed Marcus Daly. Turning to Madden, Lakeland said: 'What's your price for Hamburg?' 'Forty thousand five hundred dollars,' replied Madden. 'Well, let's eat supper,' said Lakeland. 'You have sold the winner of the Kentucky Derby, and Hamburg is gone from me, why, then, $100,000 would not buy Plaudit. I could not afford to keep both colts, but now that I have retained one, he is off the market for all time, as I mean to use him for a stallion when his racing days are over.'"

"What he then said to Lakeland he has made good to the letter, and Plaudit since that day has never been one of the salable assets of Hamburg Place. The racing telegraph has shown that Plaudit was second only to Hamburg as a two and three-year-old, taking his performances all around. At the former age he won the Champagne, Nursery and Emerald Stakes, and as a three-year-old his victories included the Kentucky Derby, Kentucky Derby and Clark Stakes, the latter earning footing up $37,770. This is considerably short of the money won by Hamburg, as the latter took into camp $61,455 during his turf career, but unless Artful can be considered, Plaudit has outbred his old stable companion. Hamburg is yet to send to the races a horse in form as brilliant as the present sensational King James. During his life Plaudit has known but three owners. These are his breeder, Dr. J. D. Neet; the late colored trainer, Brown Dick; and the present owner, 'Brown Dick' house, Plaudit of Dr. Neet for $5,000 as a yearling, and it was from that colored trainer that Madden purchased him as a two-year-old, he paying somewhere in the neighborhood of $12,500 for him."

"All through the winter of his two and early three-year-old form in 1907 and 1908, Plaudit on paper looked like he would have a walkover in the Kentucky Derby. Early that spring, however, Lieber Karl, owned by John W. Schorr, showed most sensational form in the Kentucky Derby and other races at Memphis, and when he faced the barrier with Plaudit in the big race at Churchill Downs the talent had made the Schorr colt favorite over Madden's crack. The race was a beautiful contest between the pair and in doubt until a hundred yards of the wire, when Plaudit got his nose in front, and finally won by a few inches. When the pair met a few days later in the Clark Stakes, as Plaudit was asked to concede his rival five pounds, Lieber Karl was again the favorite, but on this occasion the son of Hymyar showed his superiority beyond all question, his victory being most decisive, and after the first six furlongs the outcome of the race was never in doubt."

"Plaudit met with but two reverses as a three-year-old, losing the Landon Derby at Hanover, to which son of Hanover he was conceding a bunch of weight, and being beaten by Hamburg in the Lawrence Realization Stakes. He never raced after a three-year-old, and from the start has been a success as a sire. Bar Domino, the sire of Commando and sire of Colin and his descendants, ranks as Hymyar's best son, and on the turf Hymyar sired no better stayer nor gamer horse, bar Faraday, and Plaudit outclassed his gray near relative by a whole lot, in the opinion of many good judges. It is likely that the present season's racing will see Plaudit at the head of the list of American winning sires of 1909. Last season he was seventh on the list, and during 1908 he was represented by no less than twenty race winners that won a total of $80,000 besides King James. Plaudit has sent to the races many number of high-class performers, such as Edward, Harrigan, Takahira, Raglan, Shulamite, Slight, Britisher, Hooley, Entree, Ancestral, Ancestor, Adell, Applause, Bill Currier, Cardette, Cardener, Call Boy, Critical, Dark Knight, Eudora, Foreigner, For Luck, Fullman, Golf Ball, Helen Hills, Harum Scaram, Lalite, Lawsonian, Lady Winifred, Miss Delaney, Marvel P., Mayoresse, Monster, Margin, Panique, Plaud, Prosper, Plate Glass, Plausible, Plaudmore, Rose Hart, Triumph and Vagary."

"Among the celebrated mares now having coming weanlings by Plaudit at Hamburg Place, and which youngsters will race as two-year-olds in the Madden colors in 1911, are Ocean Tide, by St. George; Unsightly, dam of Unsightly, by St. George; Trillite, by Eodine; Yankee Sister, half-sister to Mirthful; Miss Angle, half-sister to Lady Bedford; Linda Lee, by Hamburg; Nahma, dam of Belmore and Adell; Mimosa, by Hamburg; Maxine, half-sister to Conqueror; Mary, by Fullman; Soli, by El Rio Rey; The Hydrer, by Escher; Torchlight, by Henry of Navarre, and Star of the West, by Montana."

"His only foal this year in France is out of the young mare, German Lassie, a daughter of Hamburg and Soney Lass, by Moring, the latter mare being the dam of the noted Souffle, winner of the Kentucky and Latonia Oaks. German Lassie was bred back to him in France this season, as were also the following mares:

Clips, by Sandringham—Clymena, by Hanover, Crush, by Meddler—Bargain, by Barandole, Deserter, by Order—Kincsem, by Longfellow, Donna Honora, by Hastings—Donna Mia, by Ill-Used."

Bessie, by Meddler—Little Lady II., by Peter, Etta, by Falsetto—Manola, by Gmelg, Flying, by Hymyar—Semaphore, by Onondaga, Iona, by Meddler—Martha II., by Dandle Dimont, Lady Medlesome, by Meddler—Little Lady II., by Peter."

Letta, by Falsetto—Lydia Belle, by Ten Broeck, Manzanita II., by Strathmore—Reina Victoria, by Saxon, Naught, by Meddler—Nihil, by Hindoo, Oak Leaf, by Ogdens—Soubrette II., by Farandole, Perpetua, by Hastings—Pricess, by Magnifier, Pricess, by Bramble—Roseville, by Reform, Pry, by Meddler—Eye Sweet, by Galopin, Royal Palace, by Sandringham—Nihil, by Hindoo, Satisfy, by Hymyar—Satisfaction, by Sensation, Seemery, by Sandringham—Peg Woffington, by Longfellow."

Upshot, by Sandringham—Gun Rod, by Mirthful, Wireless, by Hymyar—Semaphore, by Onondaga, Many experts on pedigrees attribute Plaudit's stud achievements to the fact that his dam is Cinderella, one of the broadmare queens of recent years. A Belmont celebrated horse, Hastings, is out of the same mare, as are also Handsome, Glenheim, Migraine and Ferrier, the latter a winner of fifty-one races. All told, the produce of Cinderella have won upward of $100,000 on the turf, and all her sons that had a chance in the stud have been winners. Of these Hastings, Migraine and Glenheim are alive, but Handsome and Ferrier are both dead. The latter was gelded early in his career and as a consequence left no progeny."

"Cinderella was a young time credited with being of double parentage on the sire side, but an English expert finally established the fact that she was by Tomahawk, a son of King Tom, and the famous Minnecant, thus surely tracing her to the most celebrated of English broadmares, the renowned Pocahontas. Through his sire, Hymyar, Plaudit also traces to Pocahontas, as that horse's sire was Alarm, whose dam was Maud, by Stockwell, a son of Pocahontas."

"Dr. J. D. Neet of Versailles paid $600 for Cinderella and Taranter when they were two-year-olds. The latter is the dam of Joe Madden and ten other winners. Neither was ever raced, both being bred when they were three-year-olds. Today Dr. Neet is one of the biggest landowners in Woodford County, Ky., and every acre of his vast domain directly or indirectly traces to Cinderella and Taranter. When the get of Plaudit show up in France in the next few years it may be the French will be sorry that they did not persuade Madden to leave the sire of King James in France, for the English never quite forgave themselves for letting the Hungarians take Bucefaver from the United Isles, especially when Kisher and Kincsem, both by him, cleaned up at Epsom and Newmarket. What they would have given to get Maskette back to England from Australia would have bought a kingdom or two, and these are but two of many cases where turfmen have seen horses slip from their own country to their sad regret. Plaudit has returned to his home like a conquering hero, and should he ever do anything else of real merit in the stud, King James has made him safe for all time in turf annals. There is no denying that he left America overshadowed by several horses. He comes back a Hanover in the breeding ranks."

RACING'S POPULARITY IN THE EAST.

"Horse racing has always been a favorite sport with New Yorkers, going back to the time when they held the great trots at Union course, the Deerfoot track, Prospect Park Fair Grounds and other famous places in the city, where Flora Temple, Goldsmith Maid, American Girl, Constitution, Lady Thorne and other noted trotters showed their speed," says a writer in the New York Sun. From trotting attention was turned to running horses after Jerome Park was opened by Leonard Jerome, Pierre Lorillard and other wealthy turfmen. Up to last year, when the Fair Agency last prohibited bookmaking went into effect, the tracks did a phenomenal business, with crowds ranging all the way from 10,000 to 40,000 persons. Even under the present adverse conditions there are some good-sized crowds at the races nowdays, more than 10,000 persons being in attendance at Sheepshead Bay on Labor day, while many more awaited the results of the various events in town."

"There are six race tracks supported by the patronage of New Yorkers, Sheepshead Bay, Gravesend, Belmont Park, Jamaica, Aqueduct and Empire City. This is going some with a stiff law against open betting. It isn't a new state of affairs, however, for turfmen have been up against anti-race-track laws before, always winning out in the end. The turfmen have always turned to the runners and his coin on a favorite race horse. Look up the history of race-track betting for thirty years back and see if I'm not dead right."

"Maybe Philip J. Dwyer knows more about local horse racing than any other man in New York City. This is going some with a stiff law against open betting. It isn't a new state of affairs, however, for turfmen have been up against anti-race-track laws before, always winning out in the end. The turfmen have always turned to the runners and his coin on a favorite race horse. Look up the history of race-track betting for thirty years back and see if I'm not dead right."

"The first numbered saddle cloths used for horse racing in this country are said to have been made by a Kentucky concern over a quarter of a century ago, and were first used at the Latonia race course. They were crude in the beginning and consisted of white Canton flannel shaped to fit the horse's back. The figures on them were by hand, and the improvements in making them have steadily gone on, and at last perfection has been reached. The present make will soon have a world-wide reputation, and probably will be in actual use at every race course in the world."

They are made of seamless black cable cloth, having a tensile strength of 600 pounds to the square yard, cannot be torn, ripped or snagged in racing, and are guaranteed against fading. Being three-quarters of a yard in length and half a yard in depth, they fit snugly under any race saddle and weigh but eight ounces each. The white figures are ten inches high and are plainly visible to the naked eye from the grandstand."

Under the figures are little invisible pockets with draw strings, and any these pockets padded discs of one or two ounces can be placed. These little weights prevent the saddle cloths from ballooning or being blown over by the wind. The discs can easily be removed when the saddle cloths are laundered, but they must be put in when the saddle cloths are double stitched and the weight is only ten ounces each with the discs."

MALTBIE OUT OF TRAINING FOR SEASON.

New York, September 23.—George Reif will make no effort to get his Empire City Handicap winner, Maltbie, to the post again this year. The son of Deering has been a pretty sick horse recently and is out of training. The two-year-old, Fighting Bob, is the only horse of any account Mr. Reif will continue to race. Maltbie Reif expects to see some racing at El Paso in the course of the winter, but he will not take his horses to Mexico. They will go to Louisville after the end of the eastern season and lay up until spring."

FRENCH TURF SUITS J. E. WIDENER.

New York, September 23.—Joseph E. Widener of Philadelphia, just back from abroad, denies the report recently cable to this country that he had given up racing in France and was bringing his stable back here. "If I have given it up this is certainly the first I have heard about it," said Mr. Widener. "There is no truth in it. I have only half a dozen horses over there, and they are now in winter quarters at Maisons-Laffitte. I have had a pleasant season in France. There are few Americans racing over there, principally, I fancy, because American horses are not eligible for the flat races, but such as have been there cannot complain of any unfair treatment in the races in which their horses have been entered. Personally, I enjoyed my experience on the French turf thoroughly."

DELIRIUM AGAIN A WINNER.

London, Eng., September 23.—The September Handicap of 400 sovereigns, for three-year-olds and upward, distance one mile, was run at Windsor today and was won by H. P. Whitney's four-year-old bay gelding by Sandringham—Forget. Afrasia was second and Candia third. There were nine starters.
